Professor and Assistant Dean at Yale School of Architecture

25th June 2025

18:00h

Salone d'Onore

— Castello del Valentino, Viale Mattioli, 39 - 10125 Torino TO

The lecture is centered around the decade following the Second World War when concern for the human condition gave rise to a new intellectual sensibility, ecohumanism, which in turn led to a new awareness on how humans inhabit the earth among architects. Work and words by architects Sverre Fehn, Mies van der Rohe, Richard Neutra, and Rudolf Schwarz will be discussed in tandem with pronouncements by era-defining thinkers such as Hannah Arendt, Ruth Nanda Anshen, Albert Camus, Erich Fromm, Martin Heidegger, and Lewis Mumford.
